

Amalia Hoffman storytelling of Purim Goodies

A unique and fun filled event that will whet your appetite.

Two servant girls dressed in hand me downs, head for each other's household to deliver Purim treats. But when they meet on route and nibble on the goodies, oy vey, oy vey, there are only leftovers on the tray!

Join Amalia as she performs her delicious tale dressed up in costume and seasons her yummy story with some very funny Yiddish words. Amalia makes music with an egg beater and a pot and the audience joins her in a klezmer sing-along.

Be tempted by traditional Eastern European treats such as: Taigelach, Strudel, Mandelbrot and, of course, Hamantaschen as Amalia displays cutout pictures of the Purim treats from her book on real trays. It's easy to understand why the two maids in the story just had to have a Stikaleh (little piece) to nibble on when they were sent to deliver the goodies to two prominent families...

After the performance, learn how to prepare Hamantaschen for baking as Amalia demonstrate how to roll the dough with a rolling pin and make the triangle shape cookie.

(Play-dough is used for demonstration).

For more information about Amalia's performances, click Storytelling on www.amaliahoffman.com or email amaliah@optonline.net

Gefen Publishing House Ltd • www.israelbooks.com